

Announcing Rachel LaFond's debut album, Wandering Soul

"Rachel LaFond's "Wandering Soul" displays a new artist with great talent and heart. It's refreshing to hear a debut album from a pianist with a gift and voice of their own."

-Joseph Akins,
Pianist and Composer

"Her playing has the grace and expression of a true artist with the refinement and confidence of a well-trained musician - a very powerful combination! ...I can very easily imagine Rachel LaFond becoming one of my favorite artists!"

-Kathy Parsons,
MainlyPiano

"I must say I loved every second of this release, now many will know I get many solo piano albums across my desk, but this is a real bar raiser, Wandering Soul is a quality album that I feel will reach the heart and minds of all who listen." -Steve Sheppard, One World Music

A collection of soulful New Age solo piano works meant to captivate, intoxicate, and recharge the spirit.

Rachel composed Wandering Soul during a year of worldwide travel. Her inspiration was unlocked when she arrived in New Zealand, and she began writing a flood of new music within the first week there. Various pieces were inspired and written in New Zealand, Japan, South France, England, the Pacific Northwest, and beyond.

Rachel's compositions have the melody-driven beauty of David Lanz and the ambient richness of Ludovico Einaudi, but Rachel plays with an engaging emotional intensity that is all her own.
